JOHNSTON LETTER.

field after a visit in the home of her brother, Mr. John Wright.

The first meeting of the Apollo music club will be held on the afternoon of September 26, at 4 o'clock with Miss Gladys Sawyer, and the members are all anticipating a season of pleasure and profit with Italian operas and composers as a study topic. The year books which are very full have been completed and were made out by chairmen, Mrs. C. P. Corn, Mrs. T. R. Hoyt and Miss Zena Payne.

The New Century club will resume activities on Tuesday afternoon, September 19, at 4 o'clock. The study of Dickens is one that will prove a source of great delight to the twenty members and the year books show programs that all are eager to enjoy. This year book was arranged by Mesdames W. E. LaGrone, P. N. Lott and H. D. Grant.

Misses Bessie Ford Turner, Mary Lucia and Elise Mobley, Bessie, Isabel and Lottie Bean, attended a luncheon at Edgefield on Friday, given by Miss Mary Jones for her classmates of Coker college.

The week's pleasures ended with a most enjoyable afternoon party on Saturday when Mrs. C. P. Corn entertained the young matron's club eight in number and besides these were a few other intimate friends. Her attractive home with its harmonious furnishings was enjoyed by each one, and the pretty surroundings made all delightful and pleasing. The chief diversion was progressive rook four tables being played, dainty score cards being given to keep tally. Each table was adorned with baskets of varicolored nasturtiums. After an animated game it was found that Mrs. J. Howard Payne had been the most skilled player and was presented with a box of rook. Mrs. Leon Stansell received the consolation a box of stationery. The hostess assisted by Mesdames Earl Crouch and M. W. Crouch served a delicious salad course with iced tea.

Mr. Ed Johnston will leave next week for Sparta academy. Mr. Johnston has decided to enter the ministry and after finishing the course here will go to the Theological Seminary.
